Says Scout Program Needs Strengthening In Atlanta

By SPIKE WASHINGTON
World Staff Writer

"Do a good turn daily." That is the slogan and the pledge of the Boy Scouts of America, a vow which is being lived up to the very letter by the Boy Scouts of Atlanta, who have been rejuvenated with the coming of a new Field Executive, Ralph Robinson, well known in sports, welfare and civic activities of this city, and who left his position as athletic director and coach of athletics at Clark College to take the job several weeks ago.

WAS GREAT ATHLETE
Mr. Robinson, who himself was a great athlete in Atlanta, before he took to tutoring the lads on the gridiron and on the basketball court, took the new position because it gave him a greater opportunity to do something for the boys. He took over in the interest of Scouting, which is regarded as one of the greatest movements on the globe.

The new executive has gone into his duties just as he went into his task of winning a berth on the first football team he went out for, and he is making the grade, which is not surprising to his superiors of the movement. He has the advantage of working with and beside him one of the finest Scout Executives in America in Weaver M. Marr, who after making Jacksonville, Fla. Scout conscious, and giving to that city the leading Negro Scout movement in America, was transferred here to bring Atlanta to the heights. This he has done, and so Robinson will get the full-hearted support, encouragement and outright aid from Executive Marr all down the line. Among whites, and this is saying plenty.

Boy Scouts

Atlanta has moved to the front of Scouting, and is recognized everywhere, all due to the Scouting genius of the man Marr. 4-16-44

Just this week, Thursday, there was held an enthusiastic meeting of the District Committee 10, in the administration building of Atlanta university, held for the purpose of reviving and reviewing the structure of the organization and making plans for strengthening it.

Present was Frank Dix, Special Deputy Regional Executive, who serves Georgia, Florida, North and South Carolina, was present and assisted in every possible way in aiding the movement, and lending his helping hand to Executive Robinson. At the helm was J. P. Whittaker, chairman of the district committee, who has always been 100 percent for Scouting and what it means to the boys. He knows, along with other Scouters that Scouting makes good men of boys.

NOT BIG ENOUGH

In addition to officers and members of the committee men representing troops of all sections of the city, Cub packs and other groups of the movement, presented themselves and were gratified with the results obtained. 4-16-44

There are 35 Scout troops and seven Cub packs in the Atlanta Council, whose groups serve 658 Scouts and 238 Cubs. This is not as it should be. A city of Atlanta's size, and population, and shall we say culture, should have at least 2,000 Scouts and 1,000 Cubs and that is certainly a low estimate. At one time Atlanta led the south in serving boys through the Scout program, but it is far from that position today. The movement must be strengthened to the point where Atlanta will again lead the south, and for that matter, be nation in this important work.

Let's all—men, women, boys and girls, aid Robinson in achieving that goal.

WASHINGTON, D. C. — President Roosevelt, in a message to the Boy Scouts of America on its 34th anniversary today (Tuesday) said that "if the people of all countries had taken the basic philosophy of scouting to heart, perhaps there would never have been a second World War." The President, who paid high tribute to the scout-masters of the nation, has been active in the Boy Scout Movement over 21 years.

In his message addressed to his 1,613,783 "fellow scouts and scouters," the President said, "As the honorary president of the Boy Scouts of America, I am proud to learn that you are looking ahead to the day of world brotherhood. It is, as you say, the hope of

All persons who are or were active in the boy scout movement — and there are more than 11,400,000 of us — have keen appreciation and deep respect for the volunteer service scoutmasters rendered to boyhood.

Thousands of scoutmasters are in the armed forces but scout troops are carrying on because many eligible men have stepped in to fill their places. Indeed, more and more men who appreciate what scouting is doing and what it means to America are offering their service to the movement.

Since the earliest days of scouting the scoutmasters have been an inspiration to all of us. I salute them.

As the honorary president of the Boy Scouts of America, I am proud to learn that you are looking ahead to the day of world brotherhood. It is, if the people of all countries had taken the basic philosophy of scouting as you say, the hope of the world. It therefore behooves us all, as scouts and scouters, to foster mutual understanding and mutual respect. Let us live up to what we so deeply believe.

Better Trained Leaders Here For

Atlanta Boy Scouts Look Back On History of Public Service

Boy Scout Week beginning tomorrow focuses attention on this American institution, and the part Atlanta has played in the 34-year movement was disclosed by leaders here yesterday.

Thirty-three years ago, the Boy Scout movement began in Atlanta. Established under the direction of Bayne Gibson, several troops were organized, sponsored by Protestant, Catholic and Jewish churches.

A campaign for funds in 1916 brought in $4,000, and a local council with Mel R. Wilkinson, president; E. W. Ramspeck, treasurer, was set up.

The Scouts' first large assignment came during the Atlanta fire of 1917. They helped in every way, running errands, on duty in the park, guarding property, and aiding the police department. More than 100 Scouts remained on duty all night. Letters from Mayor Asa G. Candler, and the President of the Chamber of Commerce commended their help during this critical period.

WHEN TAFT CAME

In 1917, when President Taft came to the Atlanta auditorium, the crowd was handled by more than 100 Atlanta Scouts.

During the last war, Scouts were on duty in recruiting stations for Officers' Reserve Corps, and Marine Corps. In the Liberty Bond Campaign they secured 748 applications, amounting to $51,750. Final score of Liberty bonds sold was $17,237,100. Scouts aided in the Red Cross campaign distributing posters, and working at headquarters in the Kimball House.

Bert Adams campsite was purchased for $3,000, and formally opened January 11, 1927. The camp later received 60 additional acres from W. C. Wardlaw.

Eagle Scout Douglas Oliver, of Troop No. 25, was one of three boys chosen to go to Africa as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson.

At a regional conference in February, 1934, cubbing was adopted, and showed 300 per cent increase in 1936.

HANDFUL OF SCOUTS

From a handful of Scouts in 1911, the rolls by 1937 numbered 3,091 Scouts, 367 Cubs, a total of 3,458 boys. Negro Scouting, beginning in 1931, reached a membership of 423 Scouts with 25 troops and one Cub pack in 1939.

Most conspicuous type of civic service was rendered the city of Atlanta in 1941. Nearly 300 Scouts participated in an all-day traffic count.

Among The Colored

Boy Scout Week Observed

The colored Scout leaders are jubilant over the success of the Scout Week observance in this city. The cordiality and the democratic spirit exemplified between Scouts are grateful and they are most wonderful. The Scouts and Scouters are grateful and they are accepting it all as a challenge to "go forward" and do even better in the future than in the past. When one thinks of the sacrifice and effort of these adults that are putting their life in this noble cause of building youth to take charge of the world to come, too much praise cannot be given these volunteer workers who are, as Dr. Goodspeed put it, "tasting the powers of the age to come." One cannot really be a Christian without that. Dr. Goodspeed puts it in other words, "A Christian must feel the strong influence of the coming age." To feel the strong influence of the coming age or to taste the powers of the age to come, one must have a vision and foresight. Then couple with this vision and foresight one must have a zeal to do something about it. That is hard work. Hard work is the difference between a Christian and a person who just "lives the life."

We should face another fact here. Too many of us are afraid of change. There is no question about it, the coming age will be a new age. Are we planning and thinking for a new age? We say we are, but deep down in our emotions we are hoping for a return of the old familiar world. Those of us who feel the strong influence of the age to come realize that we must get busy and get into these boys who will be the leaders in the age to come, spiritual values such that the Boy Scout program offers. Spiritual values such as decency, honesty, fair play, courage, etc., are those things that keep the world together.

Boy Scout week then is a challenge to all of us. A challenge to do more for the boys in helping them build character and manhood.

The observance of Boy Scout week was climaxed last night at the school when both troops sponsored jointly a banquet. This affair was indeed one of the highlights of the week. The toastmaster, the Rev. Mr. J. B. Brown, presented the Scouters who were present who gave talks that were inspirational and beneficial. Prof. P. S. Jones presented several awards among which was the coveted award won by Troop 158 for winning the prize for the best decorated store window. Both troops won blue ribbons for organization and hard work. Troop 158 received a certificate for the best articles in the paper. Scoutmaster William Daniels of Troop 158 is a proud possessor of a Scoutmaster Key presented to him some weeks ago for his excellent service as a Scoutmaster. He gave an interesting talk in which he advised the boys that though scouting is fun, it has its headaches and as Scouts they should bear them. Mr. Daniels by his service is "tasting the powers of the age to come" and is "feeling the influence of the coming age."

Plans for an aggressive Scouting program were outlined by the Board members. Reports from various Committee Chairmen included: Organization, Charles M. Greer; Leadership and Training, C. W. Coleman; Health and Safety, R. B. Wickham; Camping and Activities, Erwin Lehmann; Advancement, Bob McTigue; Finance, B. W. Whorton and R. S. Heard; Interracial, F. R. Jax May Get Slocum Award For Negro Scout Enrollment

Jacksonville, Fla. Journal

City Ranks Third in United States And Is Topped Only By Chicago, Baltimore

Jacksonville ranks third among the cities of America in the number of negro Boy Scouts. Only Chicago and Baltimore topped Jacksonville's figures for 1943, according to news received from Dr. Stanley Harris, national director, interracial activities, Boy Scouts of America.

In conference with M. G. Boswell, Jacksonville Scout executive, and the Rev. W. F. Dunkle, Jr., chairman of interracial activities for the Jacksonville Council, Dr. Harris indicated that Jacksonville's 1,518 negro Boy Scouts would win the Slocum Award of $100 given annually to the southern council having the largest negro enrollment. This award was instituted several years ago by General J. H. Slocum of Charleston, S. C., former commandant of American troops in Cuba. The award was won in 1942 by Charlotte, N. C.

Making his annual visitation to Jacksonville, Dr. Harris, a native of North Carolina, interviewed a number of Scout leaders, both white and colored. The son of a Confederate officer, Dr. Harris is the senior professional worker on the staff of National Boy Scout Headquarters and was instrumental in organizing scouting for white boys in Jacksonville in 1926. Tuskegee Institute, widely known negro college in Alabama, awarded an honorary doctor's degree to Harris in 1942 for outstanding work among negro boys throughout America.

Southeast Alabama Boy Scout Council Ends Its Best Year

The Southeast Alabama Council, Boy Scouts of America, ended the year 1943 with a total boy membership of 1,335 and an adult membership of 270. Included in the adult membership are council members, scoutmasters, assistant Scoutmasters, and troop committeemen.

The gain in boy membership is 56.5 per cent over that of last year. Twenty-one new units were organized including eight Cub Packs and thirteen Scout Troops. Troops organized in Kinston, Midland City, Newville and Daleville were the first established in these communities.

Two Cub Packs were organized in Dothan, while one each was organized in Geneva, Headland, Andalusia, Troy, Eufaula, and Ozark.

Andalusia led the council in the organization of troops with three, while Dothan, Abbeville, Samson, Opp, Newville, Kinston, Midland City, Daleville, Troy, and Enterprise each had one troop organized during the year.

Nine southeast Alabama counties comprise the council. The Eufaula Pack, No. 11, which was organized last July, is sponsored by the Rotary Club. A new Scout troop in this city is now in the process of organization, and is expected to be chartered in the near future. Plans are also being made for the organization of a negro Cub Pack in Eufaula.

Advancement records last year were the best in the council's history with 567 Tenderfoot, 162 Second Class, 64 First Class, 30 Star, 12 Life and one Eagle badge awarded. James Capell of Louisville received the Eagle Scout merit badge awards. A total of 474 Merit Badges were awarded during the year.

Negro Scouting Is Promoted Here

Leader - Renick, Ala.

A very important meeting of some of the county's key Negro Scout leaders was held at the Randolph County Training School Wednesday night, April 12. The meeting's purpose was the setting up of a council-wide divisional committee that will undertake the promotion of activities and the growth of Negro Scouting throughout the council.

That is a long step forward in Negro Scouting. To give impetus to this new step, the council secured the services of A. J. Taylor, of New York, assistant to the national director of interracial Scouting. The council field executive, Tom Durham, was present also and gave valuable assistance.

The Scouters chosen to make up the Randolph County divisional committee are: chairman, E. S. Peeples; organization and extension, Charlie Terry; leadership training, Rev. Spencer Smith; advancement, Rev. Roy Thompson; camping and activities, Robert Knight; health and safety, Huey Foster; finance, M. C. Pate; commissioner, Theodore Shumpert. 5-11-44

Girl Scouts Will Share Camp

Daniels This Summer Starting

Daily World—Atlanta, Ga.

July 25 Through August 7th

The first established camp for Negro Girl Scouts in Memphis will start Tuesday, July 25th, according to an announcement made by Mrs. Ted Beauchamp, head of the organization here.

The camp will be operated from the opening date till August 7th. It will be located at Camp Daniels on the northeastern edge of the city. Camp Daniels was originally established for the use of Negro Boy Scouts here. It has been used this summer to provide camping facilities for Scouts and other boys.

Mrs. Beauchamp stated that 100 girls are expected to attend the camp when it is opened to them on July 25th. There will be fifty girls in attendance each of the two weeks the establishment will be in operation for them.

Registration of intermediate girls those who are members of one of the 29 local Girl Scout troops here, as well as other girls whose parents or friends may wish them to attend for the two weeks camp establishment is underway. Ms. Beauchamp said it is important that at least of the $7.50 camping fee be paid when the girl is registered.

Each girl must pass a health examination and take an inoculation for typhoid fever. Three local doctors have volunteered to give the physical examinations and inoculations free of charge. They are Dr. W. A. Bisson of the Melrose High School Clinic, Dr. W. Martin of Collins Chapel Hospital, and Dr. J. W. Beckett, 1546 Florida Street.

The camp will be directed and supervised by Mrs. Beauchamp, assisted by Mrs. Calverta Ishmael. An unusual aspect of the Girl Scout program development here, was the action of women members of the Leaders Association who through personal donations raised a sum of $100 to send Mrs. Ishmael to Camp Edith Macy, National Girl Scout Training School at Pleasantville, New York, for a three week training course. Mrs. Ishmael left Memphis on June 19 and will return on July 22nd, in time to assume her duties as assistant director to Mrs. Beauchamp.

An additional $35 was added to the sum raised to send Mrs. Ishmael to the training school by members of the Foote Homes Tenant Association.

During their camping period at Camp Daniels the Girl Scouts will be offered swimming, campcraft, hiking, nature lore, music, folk dancing, games, dramatics. They are promised 'penty of good food' by Scout leaders and adequate supervision.

The Memphis Commercial Appeal has provided 'camper-ships' for 50 young Negro girls to attend the camp this summer for two weeks with a donation of $750. Girl Scouts, and girls under the supervision of the Children's Bureau and other welfare agencies in the city, are eligible to attend. Girls between the ages of 10 and 14 are in the intermediate group who will share in the camping establishment.
